This Friday, welcome
Judge Randall Duncan

The United States Attorney General appointed Judge Randall Duncan to the federal immigration bench in September 2016. For the previous 10 years Judge Duncan served as an Assistant Chief Counsel with the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, acting as a National Security Attorney, Special Assistant United States Attorney and Trial Attorney in the immigration courts.

From 2002 until 2007, Judge Duncan was the Deputy Director for Operations at the Prosecuting Attorneys Council of Georgia. Previously, he served as an Assistant District Attorney in the Coweta Judicial Circuit, prosecuting a variety of felony cases.

Law is Judge Duncan's second career. From 1985 to 1995, he was a Supervisory Special Agent with FAA Security. From 1975 to 1985, he served in various positions with the Clarke County Police Department in Athens, Georgia.

Judge Duncan was conferred a Bachelor of Arts and a Master of Public Administration from the University of Georgia. He was conferred a law degree from the John Marshall law School. He has been married to his wife, Beth, for 34 years. Their son and daughter live in metropolitan Atlanta.

Happy Birthday!
